WHAT WE EXPECT OF OUR SCHOOLS

cause some of us have learned to live with and accept it. All I ask is that the younger generation inform itself, be alert as to what has gone on before, and try to construct out of the heritage of the past an adjustment for the present and build toward a better tomorrow.

I expect much of our younger generation.

And I expect much of their teachers.

You pass this way but once. This is it! The world is very old, and some of us ponder over how to teach each on-coming generation all the lessons that have been learned by the blood, sweat and tears—and how to do it the better way; not by force, but by inspiration.

What we desire is to spark a gleam of inspiration, hoping that some youth will emerge from a nest of smugness and inertia, and stride into a destiny of achievement.

You will get The youthful, the sinewy race will even yet be pioneers! I bid you work upon the heart as well as upon the mind. Make of us a race having a "rendezvous with destiny."

Yes, as an Editor, I write and write, endless pages of copy. But, truly, I do not know the answers to the many problems of the world. Nor do you! Our goal is to build! That is why, so often, I write: "Appomattox is a growing town!" You, the teachers and pupils, will have to write the story. And I hope that when the final story is written, you will have performed well — so well, that The Editor Up-Stairs' will give you a 'by-line' for outstanding performance!

Health and Beauty

Adults breathe about 25,000 times per day while resting. The action is accomplished in most part by muscles that elevate the ribs during the inspiration phase. When a rib is fractured, the broken ends are being moved constantly by this breathing process. However, in some cases the adjacent ribs and soft tissue act like splints and provide enough immobilization for healing.

Following the rib fracture, the pain resulting from breathing is caused when the broken ends impinge against underlying sensory nerves. Some relief from pain is noticed if the breathing motion is less pronounced. The decrease in motion can be brought about by applying a cravat bandage around the chest.

The cravat bandage should be only temporary, however. It can be used during transportation to a medical facility. If the trip to a doctor is a long one, remove the bandage if the patient experiences any discomfort from the bandage.

Rib fractures are caused most often by direct blows and falls. The outward evidence may be slight — usually with very little swelling or deformity. The usual indication is no more than a tender spot at one small point, and pain at this point upon breathing.

If there is no pain, it will not be necessary to bandage unless there is a wound. If pain is present apply a cravat around the lower part of the chest. Adjust tightness according to the relief of pain necessary. If discomfort is increased by the bandaging, remove the bandage at once, and try application of moderate heat.

Never apply a bandage if the fractured ends appear depressed. If you do, you will probably drive them deeper and there is a chance they may penetrate a lung.

Mincemeat Treat Lures All Ages

It's easy to lure space-minded youngsters "out of the clouds" with an easy-to-make snack treat of Heavenly Mincemeat Confections and milk. A party-like cookie, it is made easily with mincemeat, sweetened condensed milk and cereal.

Heavenly Mincemeat Confections
(Makes about 20 squares)

1 (9-oz.) package Condensed None Such Mince Meat
1 (15-oz.) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups corn flakes, rice cereal or crumbled shredded wheat juniors

Break mincemeat into small pieces in medium-size saucepan; add sweetened condensed milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, about 6 minutes or until the consistency of thick jam. Cream butter until fluffy; gradually add sugar; beat until well blended. Sift together dry ingredients; add cereal. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture; mix until crumbly. Divide mixture in half. Pat half the mixture firmly into 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking dish which has been buttered, waxed paper-lined and buttered again. Spread evenly with mincemeat filling. Spread remaining mixture evenly over filling until smooth. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 30 minutes or until top is firm and crusty. Remove from baking dish. Cool slightly; cut into 2½-inch squares. If desired, frost with Orange Frosting.

Orange Frosting: Cream 2 tablespoons butter. Combine ¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate (defrosted) and ⅔ cup (1½ of 15 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk; blend ¼ cup of the mixture with butter. Add 3½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar alternately with remaining sweetened condensed milk mixture; beat until well blended. Stir in 3 tablespoons grated orange rind; beat until fluffy.
